Election Season Is Upon Us
By Angie Lokotz

Whether you are a City, County, State, or the Sixth Avenue Business District, November means elections. This year found some new and old business district members expressing an interest in serving on the SABD Board. It is no small thing to offer to give of one’s time. Most board members are business owners like yourselves. They know how hard it is to carve out time for work and family, business and pleasure. The current board has put in countless hours to promote, serve, and help establish new businesses on Sixth Avenue. Many stepped up when positions went unfilled. It is commendable to see so many new business owners step forward.*

Peter Vanrosendael of Turntable Treasures/House of Records, 608 N Prospect, has been here since the beginning and has seen the phenomenal positive growth of businesses on the Avenue. He would like to readjust the direction of the Sixth Avenue path back to its prime element: Art on the Avenue, which he feels has the potential to be one of the largest festivals in the City of

If you didn’t make it out to the event, here’s what you missed: Well over 150 people turned out to celebrate during Sixth Avenue’s Day of the Dead in the storefront between Half Pint and Mandelin’s. (The storefront that just last month was referred to as the former Crescent Moon is now the future Half Pint brew pub and BMX bike shop.)

The committee (Christina Wheeler and Ossaim Carder of The Nearsighted Narwhal, Robyn Liss of Ubiquitous Journey, Mario and Frances Lorenz, Katrina Haynes of High Maintenance Salon, Angie Lokotz of Pano and Rachael Kragelund of Mandelin’s) with the generous help of Josh Norris of Half Pint who provided food and libations, transformed the space into a festive

SABD Managers Report:

Some times we take things and people for granted. The Holidays come every year, The Sun will shine, rain falls from the Sky, Hummingbirds fly and Epworth LeSourd Methodist Church will always be with us. We all witnessed the second annual Day of the Dead celebration and we are very grateful for this community Icon, The Epworth LeSourd Methodist Church, for being with us. Not only is our district newsletter printed in its basement, we used the church basement to orchestrate the Day of the Dead Celebration with mask, puppet and Headdress-making twice a week in October. Without this church we would not as easily have been able to produce this event. So we extend our heartfelt gratitude to Epworth Le-Sourd at this time for service above and beyond the call.

Congratulations to Christina Wheeler from The Nearsighted Narwhal for being the event coordinator for DOD. She did an exemplary job giving her time and talent to the success of this event. And thanks also to Josh Norris, and his wife Whitney and their kids, from Half Pint for providing an excellent array of beverages and food for us.

As we head into the holiday season on the heels of DOD we recognize our interdependence within our community and with everyone working as a team we are able to provide exquisite events such as DOD for our businesses and community.

It is time now to look to the future, and to see that producing events like DOD do gather the entire community and that anything is possible on the Ave. Mardi Gras is February 17th, so if there is interest in having another event in the district, now is the time to step up and let it be known.

I am grateful for all who have assisted and made the past events of AOA, DOD, The Chocolate Walk, Progressive Dinners, Open Houses, the Grant and Jason Lee store window painting and the soon to happen Fairy Festival at the new Crescent Moon facility. And Santa Clause (Al Switzer from Lawn Equipment Repair) is coming to town. Welcome back Al.

Congratulations to Danno (Daniel Rankin) from Jazzbones who was selected to be the Event Coordinator for Art on the Ave for 2015. He will join forces with Artist, James Tucker, who is the Committee Chairman. We look forward to much success with AOA this coming 2015.

And please attend the meeting this next Tuesday as we select the Sixth Ave Executive Board of Directors for 2015.

In Love and Service,
Mario Lorenz, SABD Manager

Tacoma. He has seen every AoA and would like to see it reach its full potential.

Julie Bennett of Retrospect, 2709 Sixth Ave, has been here a year-and-a-half. She would like to help out and focus on actually increasing sales through events. Julie has experience with the Downtown Business Improvement Area on Pacific Avenue. She thinks Sixth Ave could benefit by their example: for instance Security Officers on Bikes patrolling the district and available to provide secure escort to store owners going from their stores to their cars at night. Also, better lighting on the Ave to provide a more secure/festive atmosphere for restaurant patrons and store customers.

Robyn Liss of Ubiquitous Journey, 2607 Sixth Ave, has been in business for six years but will be celebrating two years on the Ave in January. Her goal is to promote and market the district to its full potential. Robyn has already demonstrated her organizational ability with her successful Chocolate Stroll held earlier this year. She also provides a service with her Free University (http://www.freeunw.com/) which unites people in the community who want to teach and learn from each other.

Angie Lokotz of South Sound Pano, www.southsoundpano.com, is a new member this year, but has been a Sixth Avenue neighbor since 1999 and has also seen the amazing positive changes on the Ave. She would like to see the website promoted as the “go-to” place for members to find information about the business of Sixth Avenue and would like to see more businesses use the SABD Newsletter as a tool to promote their marketing ideas and connect with other area businesses.

Because Change is always a factor on Sixth Avenue, some of the people running may yet decline and some new ones may step forward. As of this writing, these were the new candidates. Another long-time 6th Avenue veteran, Wes Rogers of Studio 6 Ballroom, 2608 Sixth Ave, had also expressed an interest in running, but conflicts with his work schedule and meeting schedule forced him to decline.

venue with six tables of vendors as well as area artists, designers, face painters, a bar (with SABD president Dan Smith serving), and musicians (Mariachi Lucero provided entertainment).

Two tables were set aside for children to decorate skull masks and the kids took their jobs seriously. The Nearsighted Narwhal provided specially-designed buttons and T-shirts for the event which proved to be hugely popular. The large crowd spilled out into the street, and at dusk, Master of Ceremonies Mario Lorenz led a parade of masked and painted revelers up and down the Avenue, accompanied by Lumins, drums, and rattles. They returned in time to watch the CeAtl Tonalli perform their Aztec Ceremonial Dance ritual. At the conclusion of the Aztec dancing, Rev. Frances Lorenz conducted the Blessing Ritual and people hung their wishes for their ancestors on the specially created Tree of Life.

Incense filled the air all evening, emanating from artist Gustavo Martinez’s Tree of Life and Rev. Frances’s Altar, as well as the Aztec dance group. The happy crowd dispersed around 9:30 and cleanup began. Most of the committee are already planning how to make next year’s event bigger and better.

Lawnmower Men

If you live within the area served by the Sixth Avenue Business District and you happen to have a yard, you probably have your lawn mower serviced by one of the two Lawnmower businesses flanking the Ave. Why write about lawn mowers in November? Because if you are like me and don’t water your lawn during the few months without rain that we call summer, you don’t think about your lawn mower much until the rains return and your grass grows four inches overnight. That’s when you try to start that long-neglected mower and feign surprise when it sputters, coughs, and dies. And that’s when you go looking for a lawnmower man.

Chris Warford of M&J Lawnmower Repair has been On the Ave for 50 years. He owns the property as well as the business. M&J fixes lawn mowers of all types from push mowers to riders as well as other small engines. They also sharpen push mowers and sell some used mowers on an “as is” basis. If they serviced your mower and you still encounter problems, they will make it right. Their business is brisk; Chris has two part-time employees helping him.

His business is not open year ’round. He will likely be closed in about another month, depending on the weather and demand. What does this lawnmower man do in his off season? He tours and travels in southeast Asia. Chris served two tours with the Army in Vietnam and he enjoys going back to see the changes in the culture and the countries.

What causes most lawn mowers to have trouble starting? Bad gas. Due to the new gas formulas, three months is the maximum to store gas.

At the intersection of Union and Sixth, in the Tom McCormack building and under the record store, you will find another lawnmower man: Al Switzer. Al has been in the business for over ten years and provides 12 months of lawn mower repairs. The parking lot around his workshop is usually full of pickups dropping off or picking up mowers. The winter months (November through February) he spends servicing lawn mowers and getting them ready for the spring season. He provides a detailed description of everything he has done to the mower, and if a customer runs into a problem, anything Al detailed on that sheet of paper is covered. He must know his stuff; he counts the Mariners and the Rainiers among his clients.

Although Al is busy all year with mower repair and service, he has another job that he takes just as seriously, and keeps him just as busy: Al Switzer is Santa. The Real Santa. And Al has a dream of opening a “SantaVille” here on Sixth Avenue. In fact, his company, Switzer Entertainment, is in its 10th year of a 15-year plan.

Al’s lawnmower repair shop is in the process of transforming into Santa’s Christmas Wishes, where you can buy your wreaths and Christmas trees, and bring the kids for photos with Santa. Santa has his own wrapping paper, DVDs, wreaths, and accoutrements including a wardrobe insured for $25,000 and created just for him by his own Seamstress, Diane Warren. Santa’s clothes are not just run-of-the-mill red suits; he has beautiful embroidered cloaks, vests, and furs. He needs an extensive wardrobe because he is very busy making appearances during the holiday season.

This will be Santa’s 10th season at The Cannery in Sumner, where the lines are so long that the store often has to begin turning people away by noon in order to get Al home in the evening. He also will be hearing wishes at Watson’s Nursery in Puyallup on Fridays from Noon to 5:00 (with reindeer). He puts in volunteer appearances for Mary Bridge Children’s Hospital (fifth year), the Cancer Society (fifth year), and Muscular Dystrophy (fifth year), as well as his second year with Muscular Dystrophy in Seattle.

But that’s not all: Al wants to work with the Sixth Avenue Business District to eventually hold a Santa Parade.

Why does this man work so hard? Al’s answer is, “Why not?!” Because it puts a smile on people’s faces especially during times that smiles are hard to come by (fewer jobs, less money, illness, for example).

His timeline is ambitious. The week before Thanksgiving, or so, he will shut down the lawnmower repair shop and begin converting it into Santa’s studio. Everything will be modular and simple to set up and tear down. Follow his adventures and exploits on his facebook page: Santa’s Christmas Wishes. If anyone can carry this off, it will be Al Switzer, the Real Santa.
